FALL SHOWCASE

Reception: Friday, September 4, 6-8 pm

InSight Gallery is pleased to host our annual gallery show featuring new works from some of the most renowned artists living and working today. With over 60 new works from 40 artists, the Fall Showcase will surely have something for everyone. The palette knife paintings skillfully executed by Walt Gonske, the dramatic backlit skies of Teresa Elliott's longhorn portraits and the beautifully composed and romantic paintings of Daniel Gerhartz are just a few examples of what you will see in the Fall Showcase.

We hope to see you September 2 as we kick off our fall season with a diverse and wonderful group of new work from our family of artists.

Introducing New Artists

Showcased at InSight Gallery

Cheri Christensen Jennifer McChristian Gladys Roldan de Moras

Gladys Roldan de Moras

Always proud of her Columbian and Mexican roots, Gladys Roldan de Moras' passion for art is reflected in her colorful work. The product of a long line of artists and artisans Gladys was born in Monterrey, Mexico. She began enjoying Art at a very young age and took a circuitous route to become a fine artist. After attending Medical School she left her promising medical career to become the fine artist we know today.

Cheri Christensen

Cheri was born in Enumclaw, Washington, a small rural town of dairies, horse, and cattle ranches at the foot of Mt. Rainier. Perhaps it was her proximity to nature that instilled in her such a love for animals, something that has only grown with time. She has made a name for herself painting animals, most notably barn animals, perhaps a nod to her childhood and utilizes a vibrant palette and dramatic brush strokes to make her work simply come to life.

Jennifer McChristian

Jennifer is a highly acclaimed young artist, originally from Canada. She has now found her home in California where she has worked as an animation artist, working on projects for studios like Disney and Nickelodeon, while continuing her studies under the tutelage of a number of renowned artists from all over the country. Since 2000, McChristian has honed her skill and passion as an artist and devoted herself to full-time painting, while at the same time involving herself in the education of other artists who take part in her weekly figure drawing classes. She has quite a future ahead of her and we can't wait to see what comes next.

Quang Ho

Reception: Friday, October 7, 6-8 pm

Artist Demo / Discussions: Saturday, October 8

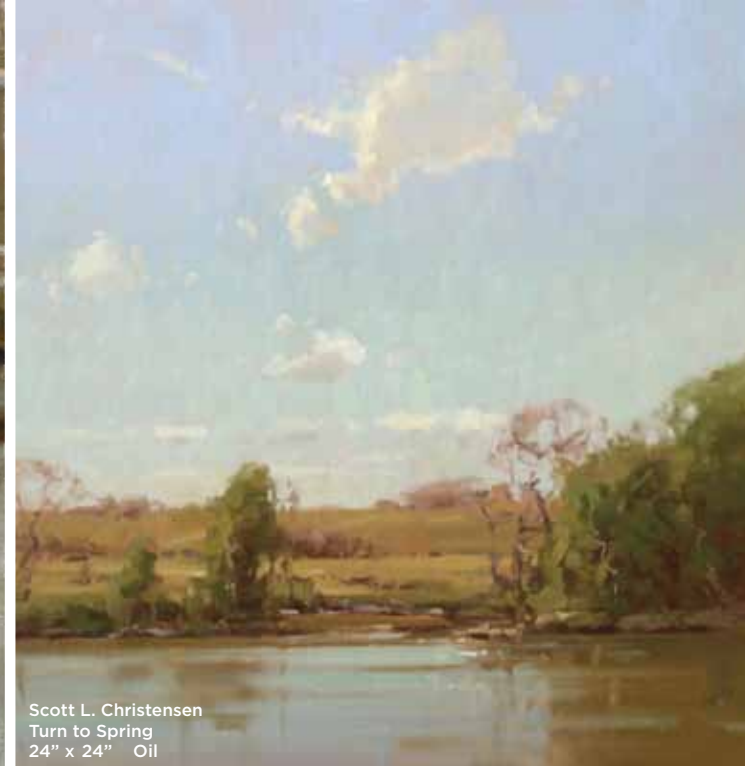

Mark your calendars for one of the most anticipated shows of the fall. Internationally acclaimed artists Scott Christensen and Quang Ho are teaming up for what is sure to be a dynamic collaboration not to be missed. Both Christensen and Ho have been working toward this show for over a year and are excited to stretch their limits as artists. Both gentlemen have been documenting their artistic process, collecting videos and photographs of paintings in progress. These items will be displayed alongside their work. Coupled with the latest technology, these snapshots, sketches, and selections of music will allow further insight into the artistic approach and technique that so many admire and respect.

We hope you all have had an opportunity to visit us in our new location. We have settled in quite nicely and could not be happier about the new look and feel of InSight Gallery. The elegance and timelessness of the building coupled with the timeless and beautifully rendered works of art create a natural symbiosis. If you haven't had a chance to see the gallery in person, we have a YouTube video on our home page that guides you through the gallery and highlights artists, architecture and Madge Boudreau-one of the integral members of our InSight family and a work of art in her own right.

The three shows we hosted in the spring were a diverse blend of fine art, each one being met with anticipation and avid enthusiasm. Our fall shows are a continuation of the quality of work we are proud to bring to the Texas Hill Country and beyond. You will see glimpses of new work in the pages of this newsletter from some of the most acclaimed artists in the country.

It was our belief when we opened our doors two and a half years ago that Fredericksburg, Texas had the potential to become the next great art town. Since our last newsletter, several new galleries have plans to open before the end of the year bringing the total to four galleries in our single city block. The monthly First Friday Artwalks have taken on a whole new feel with the galleries on our block routinely staying open late providing food and music. It is a wonderful celebration of the arts. In addition to the monthly art walks, InSight Gallery has been approached by several national art shows to host events. Thus far we are committed to hosting the National Oil Painters of America Show in May 2013 and are looking forward to bringing 100 new works by Oil Painters of America members to Fredericksburg. The next great art town, indeed.

It is a true joy to be part of something as dynamic and energetic as InSight Gallery and the blossoming art scene in Fredericksburg. We hope to see you this fall to share in the excitement, the art, and the beauty of the Texas Hill Country.
